A foggy start - Frostbite racing results for 11/27

The Frozen Few had eight boats on the line for this week's racing. Mild temperatures, thick fog and very light air greeted the fleet for the first race of the day. There was so little wind at the first start that Stuart on the Race Committee declared that the upwind mark was upwind by what appeared to be a coin toss. Several sailors drifted over the start line early carried by current more than wind.

The wind gradually picked up as the fog lifted and the sun came out. The course was adjusted to reflect the newly determined direction of the wind.

The third race of the day, was an Edgewood special race, a T*, with special supplemental rules. Sailors needed to capture a unidentified floating object prior to rounding the windward mark, and release the object before leaving the zone.

Race committee ran six races for the day, (T, W, T*, O, T2, G).
